Instructions:

1. This poem gives you the opportunity to expand the concepts of gifts with children. True gifts are the love we share with each other, not material goods.
2. Move your shoulders up and down to the rhythm of the words.
3. With both hands, give the child a high five.
4. Holding your hands in front of you with your fingers pointing up and palms facing the child, wiggle your fingers and touch the wiggling fingers of the child.
5. With a big smile, put your hands up to your face and use them to "frame" your smile.
